

My dear Sir William

I am some years and some have called upon you if the weather had permitted as I feel I have not fully thanked you enough for your very helpful letter about the difficulties of my young Cambridge friend. I have made very good use of the letter. An elderly Clergyman who has undergoing treatment in his harsh with me was much delighted with the letter and asked to be allowed to copy it - Maslowski's father was also delighted with it and copied it and young Maslowski has done the same - He returned it to me and said he would write about it later but I advised him not to try to answer the letter to me even - as I considered it quite manuscript and hoped he would feel the same - I have written thinking I might have again but have not done so. Mr. Mansfield thought the letters should be published -

I shall take an early opportunity of calling in hope of seeing you but have no other engagements early next week - as I felt I would like to write a few lines Please remember me most kindly to Lady & son - and with love to my other believe me dear Sir Yours very gratefully

As I could not read much during my treatment and lent my book.

"Eden" to the clergyman I hope you have not had much of it - I was writing in a dear time when I shall have a real treasure
