

Myse
Wednesday.

My dear D. Dawson,

I have just seen Mr. Andrew and have talked over
the matter with him.
He seems to be acting in good faith, and good spirit, and complains

act of the judgment of the examiners, which he vindicates in so far as the relative excellence of the High School Boys is concerned, but of the system. He said also that had my remarks touching the ^{likely} cause of the low standing of his pupils been reported, he should have thought little or nothing of the matter.

He is very anxious to have you know that he has had nothing to do with the letters
that have appeared in the paper (one in Gazette this morning)
and is also desirous of stating publicly that he has had an interview with me, and has been satisfied on various points concerning which he was in doubt. This step he will not take unless you approve.

I regard the letter in the Gazette this morning as a very good
that it bears the stamp of the Herald's opinion, but the writer seems to have felt that his previous personalities
were a little unflattering.
Yours very truly,
A. S. [Signature]

P.S. Gilt's report gone to H.S. Boys' this evening, as he has taken time to write.
