Dear Papa

I this morning received your letter & the Bill of exchange quite safely. I have already sent my accounts, & will next mail send the entries in my Bank Book as you desire. I will also attend to the payment of the subscriptions, & Griffin's account, & send you the Receipts as soon as I do so.

I have been trying lately a little dissection in a small way, in illustration of the Natural History lectures. I got a scallop the other day, & pulled it to pieces, examining the parts under the microscope, I succeeded in finding

Some of the parts, but as a rule all these low animals are so squashy. I wonder how many details were ever made out.
