

293. University St

Lowell / 94
Oct. 1

My dear George

Thank you for your kind & wise letter which this morn. I am truly glad to know that you are safely back before the early winter storms set in, & that you put me & I will be glad to welcome you here as soon as you find it convenient to come. The last day & two of Evers' bidit were full of ~~100 letters~~ - as Friday I think not fewer than about 20. friends called to say - "goodbyes" many of them bringing little packages in liquor - pins - or flowers - It was gratifying to me to find how (notwithstanding her long absence) widely she was loved.

 I remembered & doubted it was ever more pleasing to her. but she is gone & left a lonely aching heart on this side. 'Some facts however forbid morbid melancholy, because I am just passing through a union

a domestic Cataclissos - Marriage having intervened to deprive me of the two sisters I had & various hitches having me with only an old Cook, for a few days, so that when Will, ~~rather unexpectedly~~ appeared last night about an hour before Pinkie was expected my faith sunk low, but was not allowed to stand long at 12 as half an hour afterwards, Jean, an old domestic, came to my relief - I had sue for her but merely no means sure that she can come to all mine comparatively well. In a letter written to Mr. Anna this morn-she expresses great longing for Rankine to go to her to advise about next movement & the wants help to take Eric to Saranac to conduct Dr.

Sullivan as to winter arrangements.
E. keeps on the side of progress better words.
Again I must ask your leniency for a scribbled note for I am pressed for time.

Affectionately yours
Marianne

Enclosure invitation I told Mrs. R. and not be answered for some time as I had not sent it till today.