

Letter Duets
Aug 20th 1900

Dearest George -

Your telegram went to my heart, & I feel a most ungrateful person to decline - It brought back the day when I thought of you first in every plan - but now I am in the midst of so many responsibilities - It is not difficulties deter me, they are easily dealt with, but we have an unusual number of new depastures to make - the little girls have to be arranged for as unless Mrs Boney cannot go on with the class - & I am writing to governors - & visiting all schools - & these things must be answered as they arrive

Letter to

Dear Mother

I have been thinking much to my heart, & I feel most respectful wishes to be done - It brought back to my mind a thought of your first very letter - that was I am in the world of a morning relieved - It is not sufficient to be sure, they are really well well, but we have an great number of new letters then to make the letter have to be arranged for an time but every command of with the law - I am to government - I suppose I think - I think they be answered on the other also my cook here, leaves this week, & I have not yet got any one to replace her, & the scullery girl is not an easy one to guide. No cook has taken her place either & Conrad has to be up as he is 5th & no one else gets so early so a boarding house or refectory must be found - & so one clear can tackle that & the children quite well.

These are only a few of the things Bernard, himself & his destination is the hardest of all - to decide =

You escape these complications but have plenty of others, & as you know the puppets are always most complex when you have to consider the human feelings & feelings.

Very many thanks dear for all your continual kind thoughts - affectionately yr

Anne
