

windy

COS417/37.49

His sympathy which was both personal and impersonal — personal because he loved the beauty of the mind, impersonal because once he turned the light upon himself and says 'look at me'.