

CUS417/57.135

FAIRHOLT
BURLINGTON, VERMONT

August 25, 1925

Dear Harvey:

~~Sir G. Lenthal Cheatle, a distinguished and charming surgeon of London, writes me that he will be at the Plaza Hotel in New York, August 30. I only know him through correspondence. He is especially interested in the relation of chronic cystic mastitis, which he calls desquamative epithelial hyperplasia, to cancer of the breast.~~

~~I know he would appreciate it if you sent your card of welcome to his hotel. Perhaps you would care to invite him to address your clinic on this subject. He has brought his sections with him, and perhaps his lantern slides.~~

I cannot miss this opportunity — and I am not introducing it as a bribe — to record my appreciation of your great literary ~~piece of~~ work. My father, Mr. Henry Holt, who is now eighty-five years of age, is reading your book every night, and he tells me that it is the only book in the last five years that keeps him awake. He was very familiar with the beginnings of things at Johns Hopkins.

With kindest regards,

J. C. Bloodgood
DR. JOSEPH COLT BLOODGOOD,
904 NORTH CHARLES STREET
BALTIMORE, MD.

Very sincerely yours

Joseph C. Bloodgood

Dr. Harvey Cushing