Dear Dr. Bushnig

Perhaps you will pardon a stranger writing you, inasmuch as it is an effort to bestake the fleeting purpose. I have just finished the second volume of your life of Osler, and would like to say how immensely I have enjoyed it. I do not recollect when I read a life that indicated such a stimulus both professional and personal, and I should like to send you a note of personal thanks for your work. I saw Osler only on his visit to Edinburgh in 1907. To us as students, he was essentially the writer of our Medical Bible. Your "life" is a revelation of the man even more than of his work, and it is for that chiefly that I feel in your debt.

One can realize the enormous amount-of work that lies behind these two volumes. You have presented a very living picture of a very great man.

Please overlook the liberty I take in writing you. I feel I simply had to obey the impulse.

Yours very sincerely

A. Gibson
