My dear Dr. Cushing,

Just about to take a train for California, I cannot first deny myself the pleasure of telling you of the delight that has been mine for weeks past — slow reader, each sentence turned on the tongue and the end chewed leisurely — in reading your Life of Osler.

You have made him live again.

It seems to me the essence you have distilled must pervade medical thought & literature for a long time to come.

He has set a pace which few can achieve but which all will profit by emulating.

Our good friend, F. O. Dick Jones, has laid me under a great debt by giving me the books.

Yours sincerely & gratefully

Henry Sewall
