

G. DAVIES SHERBORN
DONAVIT.

52, HUNTINGDON ROAD,
CAMBRIDGE.

The Donny House
Bancaster

Jun 22. 18

Dear Mr. Sherborn,

Thank you so very much for your letter: your sympathy & great help to me & I will most gladly take advantage of your kind offer of help if anything arises.
Your friendship was one of the things I most valued most warmly.

I have come down here with her & Mr. Bertwistle. (He is a Pembroke man who has been Newell's greatest friend in Cambridge since Major Parker left, who has been immensely kind & seeing to all the things at the spot that someone local must do.)

Do you know this place?
Absolutely true & great sweets & sea sand-dune: most healing & soothing -

I told you in my last letter that as an alternative to the Borough Cemetery in Cambridge we have a grave in the little Churchyard of Gortan village in a perfectly quiet spot looking over the country. I have twice trips done really matter, but it happens that he was not indifferent about them & a funeral at Trinity with the music choir he loved was a thing of which he had a definite wish, so I am glad we were able to fulfil it.

I go back to Cambridge on Wednesday Again thanking you most warmly for your kindness, & for that kindness with I have deep feeling sensitive of, in your giving me a share of your friendship you had for Newell Yours very much

Agnes Arber