Dear Sir,

Slow to time in clearing myself from an unjust charge.

The Lad who received the copy from me said that you sold them for 25. I understood I did not believe that to be possible. but said whatever your retail price was he should have it for A person from the music happened to be in the shop when the Book came, and I immediately forwarded it, without seeing your marked price.
He called again and told me the same story about your price to which I paid no attention. You will remember that I told him the price was to be 30. and if you were selling for less now, he sh^d I get the benefit of the reduction. He called a third time yesterday when I read him your words. to which he made no reply. In all cases I strudy to have my retail price same as yours, so far as this is known.
