Dearest Edward

You do write such nice letters!
I only wish that mine were half as well expressed, they must be deathly dull for you sometimes.
It would be a good thing to have an appendix added to ^{the} "The Window Letters" so that yours might shine alongside of your May Florian ancestors!

Do you imagine that you are the only one that has to be made into a Christian?
I fear that you will have to place, where ^{3.} nobody would bother you ^{I mean me} just think and think - I hate people ~~at~~ present — bunker —

Edward Dear, I think it is wretched that you have to work in the evening - you should be out running around having a gay time - I hope you and Ken had a nice time at the Spraggles? -

I have been eating so many good things in the last few days, that I have ^{had} beautiful dreams, every night, and usually about 4th. quite an encouragement to go on being a "pig" - don't you think?

The ^{best} children had their Xmas here last night, it was a huge success. We were there for about 6 to 9.30 o'clock. We were so tired and hungry by the time we shoved the last child out of the club room. Going down we had rather a funny time, the cars were so crowded that we could not see where we were, and we got carried miles past our destination, and had to take a sleigh - I think you feel like such a fool when you do a crazy thing like that!

I went over to the school this morning, for the first time since the holidays, (It was quite nice in a way to be back there again).
I had to plan out a whole new course yesterday, and delivered four lectures this a.m. on the art of Engraving, etching & Pen & Ink drawing —

Nani has just rung the up and wants me to go to tea — Wasn't it a shame, she had such a cold that she could not go to the dance last night and it seems to have been such a nice one to —
Well my very dearest

Dear, I must go and put on my best bib and tucker, and try to make myself look beautiful "if possible".

Will come back today, & is very sprightly after his holiday — much and love to you my
