

HOTEL ST. LOUIS
QUÉBEC.

Aug 19th 1913

My dearest Lois

I had a fine cool snooze down to Quebec on Sunday night, had breakfast at the Victoria Hotel and then started for La Tuque where I arrived at 4 P.M. on Monday. The trip to La Tuque was about as nice as it could be. We went steadily up grade for more than $\frac{2}{3}$ of the way when we came to the height of land and from there we had a steep run down to La Tuque.

The first part of the trip shows cultivated fields along the railway with mountains and trees behind. The next part shows nothing but trees and mountains and the train takes a course along quick flowing mountain rivers.

I didn't see any animals or fish though the train went slowly enough at times for me to see both if they had been about — but I did see two fine black duck swimming in a quiet spot on one of the rivers.
Both yesterday and today have been cool, quite chilly in fact when the wind struck in a shady spot.

At La Tuque jet. and La Tuque I picked pigeon-berris, raspberries and blueberries and lay in the sun till my face burned. There are still some great places for us to take a camping trip when the
