

speaks a great deal about Edinburgh - I think Com & Berner would like it. & I dare say you would if it were read to you. I have also heard of a nice book for Sunday, I am going to try & get it - it was recommended by Mrs Greenfield who has 9 children, & they all appear to read & learn together on Sundays, I consider the book a treasure. The view out of our window here is a wonderful one, we had a delightful service yesterday, in the Free Vigil - a Presbyterian church I intended to go & hear another very good preacher in the evening but we had been out to Miss W's class & was pouring rain, so we had a little service at home instead listen to all you can about Thistle Castle & chapel, for they are wonderful With much love from

My dearest Luis,
Your nice letter gave me great pleasure, I was glad to hear that you succeeded so well at your exams, because it showed that you had really tried your best. It is sometimes surprising what one's best comes to. I even History which you found so difficult; you have overcome: I think of how nice it is to be at Melis. Did you get any nice work to do? I sent out two little centres for d'oyles & if you care for them I could easily get more, I also hope that you have begun golf for you need some more exercise than you had last year, I am sure

Bernard wd like to play with you - also do you but with swimming, I remember what I told you about being extra careful about bathing - I will think of your rubber caps, this is not a good place to shop I am told, but the difficulty is to send out-parcels I am glad the gloves & hats arrived safely. Tonight it is raining again, quite hard I would like to see one day, sunshine - I cannot get the surrounding hills into my mind, if I can't see them, can I?

The trees are actually not fully leafed out, & I saw tulips in a garden yesterday, & the lilies are still in flower.
Every one says it is quite unusual, & indeed I hope so I don't know what will become of the crops -

But he is writing about a college in the Highlands for August & she thinks of receiving reports to inspect one or two, & I will go also. I have a piece of the letters The Scots people in shops & R.M. stations, are so practical. I remember to the point in a way much to be commended & that did not strike me in England I saw a young fellow driving in sheep the other day, that had an air, & a clear eye, & fine face & figure that wd have ornamented the old Greek days.

Monday -
I hope at last the weather is improving, last night I really see the hill beyond the bridge. Do you remember the story of Kidnapped - I am reading the sequel of it, Hatterra, & it
