6 December 1971

Dear Mrs. Winslow-Spragge:

Over the weekend, I read the December 1971 issue of American Heritage and was more than a little intrigued when I took time to study the David J. Kennedy water colors depicting the Philadelphia Centennial Exposition of 1876. The personal interest grew out of my reading of your account of your father's letters to your mother while he was there. This morning, I received from you in the mail, your father's pass to the exposition. The coincidence is somewhat striking.

This latest body of 11 items has been given the Accession Number 1388, and it will be placed in Class 2, along with the other Dawson and Harrington Papers, by which numbers, they will be readily retrievable. I've attached an accession list for 1388 for your files.

We are most grateful indeed for this latest and most gracious gift to the McGill University Archives.

I'll keep you informed as soon as something develops with regard to the new Dawson Room.

Sincerely yours,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "John Andreassen". The signature is written in a cursive style with a large, sweeping initial "J".
