Dear Sir,

It is in contemplation to publish here a Monthly Serial devoted to Natural Science, Political Economy, Education, and the Familiar Arts, the part devoted to Natural Science to be under the control of a Committee from the Natural History Society of New Brunswick, and the subjects that require it to be illustrated by wood-cuts. It is intended to give the articles on science a popular cast, approaching the style of "The American Naturalist"; the other subjects to take more of the form of Blackwood or the Atlantic.

Is it in your power to contribute an article occasionally, say two or three in a year, or even one in a year, on some subject with which you are familiar? The many readers in the Maritime Provinces of your writings would welcome an article from your pen with pleasure, however frequently it might come before them.

It is the intention to publish in the Prospect the names of Contributors if there be no objection. Providing that you decide to favor us as above requested, have you any objection to the publishing of your name with those of other Contributors on the same subject?

Dear Sir,

Very respectfully yours,

J. L. McEnnis.
