

Mary Hall Oxford

May 22. 1870

My dear J. Dawson

I am very glad to see by the papers that you are in England again, & Phœbe writes to ask whether you can spare time to come & see us in Oxford.
There is not any one of my Canadian friends who would be a more welcome guest, and I know that those whom you met here on your former visit would be very glad to meet you again.

I should be especially glad if you could come to the dinner of the Political Economy Club on the 11th of June & say something on the Colonial question. You would have for audience a dozen or more of the clearest-headed men in Oxford, and I have asked the Secretary (Mr Harold Koyen) not to give notice of any other subject of discussion until I have heard from you.

I can offer you a room in my house for as long a visit as you can conveniently make: I am afraid that I am almost too busy to make a very good host: but, if you can come, I shall not despair of your finding entertainment.

Always yours sincerely

Edwin Hatch
