

Sunderland, June 28th

My dear Sir,

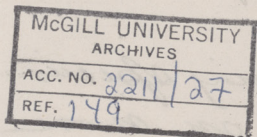

Yours of the 22nd inst. reached me duly, and a day or two ago I received also the specimens you refer to - I have already looked at some of them, and will examine them thoroughly as soon as I can find time. Will you please advise me as to where I shall address you respecting them. I can say it may be a month before I can give you any accurate account of the things - I presume you wish all the specimens returned.

Thanks for your kind permission to publish new species. I will of course remember what you say on that head.

As to the swimming species - Copepoda - , they are more difficult and tedious. - I may say, however, that I have had many luminous gatherings and that though the animals themselves are undoubtedly often luminous, this phenomenon does not seem connected with any particular species or even families, but is a widely spread property of the animals.

Yours very truly
