My dear Sir,

I have reason
to believe that you
and his party are
in the interest of the General Mining Association of London.

They have no
ground whatever
except one square
mile of the Hematite
bed, and a quantity of poor

Clay mixture in
the low meadows,
all the more valuable. No and five fifths of the
hemlock bed are covered by our claims. I mention this in case any future expectations
as to their property
may interfere

with your sweep,
of the established
firm works they will have to buy
one from us, on work on a very small scale.

We have con-
municated your offer
as a lecturer of some of Peter and have advised that she granted; but your will can't see that with the agents of
I referred her to Mr. A. B. Sanderlin

The General Mining Act to create on the ground and new discoveries
being made and the parts as to constant line of iron it may be difficult to secure
opent of our use
to create.

Truly yours
