

A Cook
Oct 17/2

Dear Sir

I hope there is a fair chance of your son giving us the double course I spoke of before.
He would be more likely to be successful than any other person I know - and taking them both, we should be able to make it more worth his while. Do let us hear as soon as you can whether he is disposed to entertain our proposal and if he is, in what terms. I am to begin this week to beat up a class and take all necessary steps. We will go as far as we can to get him if we succeed in having a good class.

Some has been with me again - looking to be received into our literary classes. Is there anything in the customs or councils of colleges to prevent this? From what you said, I suppose not, but I would like to hear from you more closely.

Yours very truly
John Locke

Principal Dawson
J. L.

MCGILL UNIVERSITY ARCHIVES
ACC. NO.	2211/46
REF.	20