Address of Journal

I understand that the proposal for the formation of an Imperial Geological Union which has come from Canada, and is in its conception at all events the idea of Sir J. W. Dawson, has so far succeeded that the Royal Society is about to take the first step by inviting to a conference representatives of the Geological Survey of Great Britain, and of the various Societies and Associations in Great Britain and Ireland prosecuting geological work, along with representatives from similar bodies in the colonies. It is also expected that further aid will be given in the way of carrying out the proposal at the approaching meeting of the British Association in Manchester.
