

here, what I take to be a fish & have been trying to indentify it with one sketched in your Book, but as yet, have not satisfied myself about it - but I am in hope of doing so, & if I can I shall forward it to you along with the others.
I spoke to Mr. A. Still who advised me to send it to you, if after examination I should think it was a fish.

Sir,

I duly received your Postal Card & was glad to see the one sent turned out rich, although not so much as I expected.

I am sorry to see I overlooked one part containing skeletons - the reason why is that the piece wanting was blown quite a distance off, and as it was raining very hard at the time I collected the pieces, I must have forgot about that particular piece but I intend to go the logging soon & shall be perfectly able, I have no doubt, to recover it, as I mind perfectly well where it was blown to - when found I shall at once forward it to you.

I enjoy your Book greatly - the more I read of it the better I like it. I found
