

High School
Mount.

June 4th 1878.

Dear Sir,

I re-enclose you the pagan verses from the London Spectator, and the rejoinder. The latter I have not touched, as it seemed to meet fully all the requirements of the case.

I am told that Dr. Baker Edwards has also written a reply to the Cockney heathen (or heathen Cockney) for this week's Spectator.
The Dis Colours, mutilated and scribbled over was no longer "a thing of beauty," and was rightly (in the meantime) consigned to Mr. Passmore's lumber room.

It is, I believe, true that Mr.
Parson has a relation who is an office-holder in Mr.
Spurgeon's Church — a fact, which has been ridiculously distorted by the unage-matched of the Spectator.

I remain, dear Sir,
Yours truly,
Geo. Murray.
