Dear Dr. Dawson,

I have today handed over the specimens you gave me to the Curator of our Museum. They will not be arranged for another year or so until the new building is completed.

The Geological Section is very rich and Taylor is doing his best to increase its value.

The "best stones <sup>" brought you</sup> are thought by Taylor to be the remains of another deposit for they lie in hollows at the top of the Ludm clay. He thinks they are accretions while Prof Charles Smith holds a different view.

Taylor will send an acknowledgment on behalf of the Museum.

With kind remembrances,
Believe me

Faithfully Yours
J. P. Jones
