

Knowlton

Dec^r 30/80.

Dear D^r. Dawson

We were very glad to hear from you last night; but it was really too kind in you to stop to see D^r. Miller on your way home when you must have been tired & cold! I wrote to him last night telling him that we were wanting him or D^r. Fisher to see Mr. Dawkin.

After you left my dear husband went to bed early, feeling tired; but we do not see that your visit has done him any harm, & certainly it gave him a great deal of pleasure as he desires me to say to you. Today has been very stormy; but he was carried down stairs at about one o'clock & is just going to bed (7.30 P.M.) Mr. Bancroft came to see him this afternoon & prayed with him. I do not mean read from the Prayer Book!

Please do not take a great deal of trouble about the Elevator, as I think it could not be attempted at present under any circumstances, & your time is so precious.

Sam & his horse got back all right from the station & we wished you had been wrapped in fur as he was in driving to it.

It is mail time, & I must close with affectionate remembrances from us all to Mr Dawson & yourself.

Believe me,

Yours truly,

Mary Perkins.
