14th April 1883

Dear Sir,

We venture to introduce to your kind notice a young gentleman, Robert William Gambier-Bousfield, who has passed the Examination in Architecture, and has been elected an Associate of the Royal Institute of British Architects. He is travelling in Canada, where the Institute has few correspondents, and we regret to say no Members, for the purpose of pursuing his scientific and artistic studies, and he intends to continue his journey by a visit to the chief cities of the United States.

We have furnished him with this introduction in the hope that you may have leisure to advise him respecting the buildings of Montreal and the means of obtaining admittance to them.

We have the honour to be, dear Sir,

Your most obedient Servants
