My dear Mr Fairie,

I send you another long semi-Memorial letter to-day because it is well to write while things are fresh in one's mind, and because I may be pressed for time later on when preparing to leave England.

I shall be obliged if you will kindly keep these letters, as they may be of use in preparing a more detailed paper afterward.

With very kind regards to what Miss Dawson
