Nov 20, 1885-

My dear Sir,

I received the proofs of the tract with your kind letter ^{day before} yesterday and have at once attended to them. I now return the author's reine by book-post
and have, as you will see, attended to nearly all the points marked by you, though in some cases I have made the Corrected in a manner slightly different from that suggested. This was more especially necessary as some of the errors arose from words misread by the printer.

I am sorry that the matter so much exceeded my estimate, and the dimensions allotted to the tract; but as it has been set up and as the printer on time works and the Sabbath is in my judgment one of the most interesting and important points, I shall be willing to pay out of the allowance for Copyright for the cost of printing the 11 pages relating to these points and which I enclose proof of in this.

If however there is any objection to this on other grounds, perhaps you will kindly return the

prof. Dine and inform me if I may make any other use fit.
It might no doubt be expanded into a part on the whole subject of creature days and the Sabbath I should thus be thought deroller.

I return the Editor's letter with your notes and my corrections marked on it to send it for greater safety three days hence via New York.

Sincerely yours
J. M. D. W. M.
