

The Royal Society of Canada.

Ottawa, February 20th 1886.

Sir,

I have the honour to inform you that the next general meeting of the Royal Society of Canada will be held in this City on Tuesday the 25 day of May.

Your attention is called to the following Rule of the Society with respect to papers.

"No paper shall be read in any section, at any general meeting of the Society, unless it has been presented, either in full or in abstract, at least three weeks before the first day of the meeting, and formally accepted by the Society, in accordance with rule X of the Society, except by special permission of the council. The publication of any paper not so accepted, as having been read before, or presented to it, may be disavowed by the Society."

I remain,

Yours truly,

Profr. Bowring

Honorary Secretary
