To J. W. Dawson L.L.D. & Co Principal of the University of McGill College —
Dear Sir,

Philomath as much as I can, I must confess that since I learnt that speeches would be made by the scientists of the American Scientific Association, I have been smitten more than ever with the allurements of intellectual delights —

I long to be enlightened by these ears radiating with science, which I fear not to — be

be able to ~~do~~ by myself, to approach enough —
without your mighty help.

If you could, by some means, facilitate my access you <sup>would</sup> do me the greatest favours & add much to my former debts of gratitude.

Meanwhile I remain
