

TELEGRAPHIC ADDRESS:
EXPOSITOR LONDON.

27, Paternoster Row.

London, 10 April 1889

Dear Sir W<sup>m</sup> Dawson

Time runs on so swiftly that by the time a reply from your pen reached the public, the article in "The Contemporary" may be forgotten, but I should think the Editor would be glad of an article from you, unless you would prefer to re-assess your position in "The Expositor"?

Believe me
Your sincere

M. H. Hodder

Sir J. William Dawson P.R.S. &c

Hodder
April/89