Mills May 29/89.
May 189

Dear Sir,

Accept thanks
for your courteous
note of explanation
of Prof. Peckham's
had called his Committee together
and acquainted
them with the nature of the proposed changes - (somewhat radical) - I would

but have been under the necessity of dis-
-cussing the subject
at such a disadvantage

I think the Chairman's course was very peculiar under the circumstances.

The statement, moreover,
that "the bulk of the work has fallen to
the Chairman" is not the form of expres-
-ion best calculated to give the Society
a true idea of the facts. The work in regard to the exchange fell to him - but that he proposes to now

give to others; apart
from this, however,
the amount of work
has been pretty equally divided, and had it not been that it might give rise
to the impression
of lack of harmony
between the members of the Ed. Com. I should have questioned

The accuracy of that statement. He may not have meant to make so strong an impression but certainly I was surprised at the whole affair.
However, I think the changes on the whole
good ones; and it seems to me wise to have some non-resident Editors. Of course, we all recognize how much you do for the journal and the Society as a whole. I shall still do my little for the
"Record". Truly Yours
Wesley Will.
