Sir William Dawson,

Hotel Bon Air,

Augusta, Ga.,

My dear sir:

Your letter of March 6th. is received. I enclose a copy of my Second Report which indicates how important the meeting of the Parliament will be. Reluctantly I surrender the hope that you will be able to be with us in September, but I am convinced that a brief paper by you which would summarize what you have already published, would be an extremely valuable and important contribution to the Parliament. I hope that you may find time and strength, or appoint some one who will take the time and strength, to prepare a succinct summary of your conclusions on this important theme. The proceedings of the Parliament are to be published in four or five volumes and your words would go into all lands and reach a multitude who have not been reached even by your widely-circulated publications. In case you are able to prepare and send this paper, I shall be pleased to send you as a slight honorarium the sum of $100.

Hoping to hear from you soon and favorably and to learn your health is gaining, I remain with much regard,

Yours sincerely,

John Henry Barrows
