

Mr Lynd
Dear Sir

Dear Sir William

I have just finished reading your admirable Lecture, that you so kindly sent to me, and I have been much interested in your work at the McGill University. What a splendid record it is, of what a man can do even in thirty eight years of his life! You must allow me to sincerely congratulate

You upon the great success of the University, And dear Lady Dawson, what a help she must have through the long struggle! I noticed with pleasure your mention of your "wife" in the Lecture, and it reminded me so much of my brother Bishop Sedell
who never failed publicly to remember his wife and the help she had been to him in his work, Miss Warren is in the same house with me this winter, and but a few days ago we were talking over our visit at the Hotel Bon Air and our charming party there. I see by the morning papers that you have been giving a Lecture at Boston, and only wish I could have heard it.

It may be that you will repeat it in New York, if you should, will you not let me know when you are, so that we may have the pleasure of seeing you?

For the winter I am at 71 Madison Avenue, but at any time can be heard of at my daughter's at 77 Madison Avenue, as just now my home is broken up. With kind regards to Lady Dawson and yourself, and thanks for remembering me

Yours sincerely

Elizabeth Lyne
