

The Bulwark:

(ESTABLISHED 1851.)

A Monthly Journal on behalf of Reformation Principles.

12 Argyle arcade and 263 ARGYLE STREET,

Glasgow, 10 April 1894

Dear Mr William,

It was exceedingly kind of you to take the trouble to acquaint me of the honor which the Senate of the McFell College had conferred on the Rev Alex Robertson of Venice, and I thank you, sincerely, for your great courtesy. I wrote at once to Mr Robertson, and have since had a reply from him in which he says "the distinction I value most highly, associating me, as it does, with a truth loving and truth proclaiming College, and with the great and good Sir Wm Dawson.

I feel it to be an incentive to dilligence in the future".

All friends of the "truth as it is in Jesus" will rejoice most heartily at the honor which you have conferred on Mr Robertson; and I feel certain that he will in no wise detract from the lustre of the good name of your distinguished College.

I may mention that in addressing me as the "Rev Dr. Stewart" you confer on me a degree much more speedily than has been conferred on Mr Robertson or any one else! No doubt, I often get letters addressed Rev-never before Dr., but I am a mere merchant, - a humble layman, who devotes what little talents he possesses, and a share of his means, and part of his leisure, to the 'holy cause of Protestantism. When a youth of 19 (now over 30 years ago) I began writing a weekly letter for the "British Standard" - founded, owned and edited by my venerated friend the late Dr. John Campbell, and since that time, in various ways, have written and laboured in the good cause, as my recreation.

With kindest regards,
and sincere respect and esteem, Believe me.

Yours faithfully
A. M. Stewart

To
Sir Wm. Dawson
Manchester.
