

Pembroke College,
Cambridge.

26th December 1894.

Mr G.H.Head of this College took his degree in the Classical Tripos of 1891. He was placed in the first division of the Second Class. I had every opportunity during his undergraduate course of becoming acquainted with his abilities, and I may be allowed to express my opinion that as regards style and general literary faculty he does not fall short of the first class Standard. His power of expression is not confined to writing; he possesses the faculty of easy and ready speaking.

His character and conduct are excellent. He has a pleasant manner, possesses tact and self-reliance, and may be trusted to do work committed to him with energy and conscientiousness.

Since his degree he has had considerable experience in teaching and in gaining acquaintance with systems and methods of education.

R.A.Neil, M.A.,

Fellow, Assistant Tutor and Principal Classical Lecturer of Pembroke College, Cambridge.
