Dear Sir William Dawson

I have this evening got your letter and correction of 19 February. I will take especial care to follow your wishes.

By the Carnarvon note I asked Professor Hays Dawkins to give his views on regards Huxley's article, he today sends me a message that he is too busy to "give his view of the ideas advanced by Professor Huxley"

I am sure as I think his words would have weight, and my suggestion (which I think the Council will approve) ~~is~~ that the various opinions sent in should be introduced by a prefatory address by Sir George Stokes.

Today March 1st has apparently ended our winter "of discontent" - so many forgetting that a bracing winter was healthy have complained loudly and deeply of the want of water. (whole streets have had the water mains frozen. — and the frost has gone 4 feet deep) and of sundry other wants, but a little privation or alteration of life in a highly civilized state has its advantages even if it be only to make people think of each other.

On the 2nd March we have the first election of London Government body under a new System. and I have been elected by my district in Saint Kensington to look after the organization so that the Unionist cause may not suffer so I shall have a busy day with the rest of our Council.

I had hoped for another days skating but the ice is too thawed.

Yours most truly

Nettie
