

Harvard University,
Cambridge, Mass., March 15th, 1899.

Dear Sir William,-

I hope you have already received the Announcement of Radcliffe College and the Harvard Catalogue, together with a note from me.

Radcliffe is still in Fay House; but they have acquired several wooden buildings in the vicinity, and a large gymnasium building, built of brick and stone, was given them last year. The College is steadily growing. Mrs. Agassiz is still President of Radcliffe. She is in good health, and I am sure will be very glad to hear from you and Lady Dawson.

I am sorry to hear that you feel somewhat infirm. It must be a great pleasure to you, however, that McGill is likely to have the opportunity of doing a great service to women through the new endowment.

Very truly yours,

Charles W. Eliot

Sir J. Wm. Dawson.

Dear Sir William,
I hope you have already received the announcement of the Harvard College and the Harvard Theological Seminary with a note from me regarding the matter. The fact that you have not yet received several copies of the report in the volume, and a large quantity of the same, will be of great value to you, however, and I am glad to hear that you are giving them to the College. The College is greatly indebted to you for the report in regard to the matter. The report is in your hands, and I am glad to hear that you are giving them to the College.
I am sorry to hear that you feel somewhat ill. It may be a great pleasure to you, however, and I am glad to hear that you are giving them to the College. The College is greatly indebted to you for the report in regard to the matter. The report is in your hands, and I am glad to hear that you are giving them to the College.
Very truly yours,
Charles F. Johnson
