

Sheffield, Mass.
March 9, 1899.

Sir J. William Dawson:

Dear Sir.

Upon reaching
this village I found a San Francisco mail awaiting me. In a Bulletin was the enclosed clipping, which I take the liberty of sending you, assured that your great heart will be in full sympathy with your friend's pleasure.
I will look back upon my brief visit with you and Lady Dawson as an episode of a Red-Letter Day.

Praying for each of you our Father's richest blessings.

I am sincerely and reverently yours.

Nellie Blessing Eyster.
