An Association of young men for mutual helpfulness, providing for the young men of the city an attractive place of social resort, free from questionable influences, and equipped with helpful agencies for their intellectual, physical and spiritual welfare.

May 19, 1899.

Sir William Dawson,

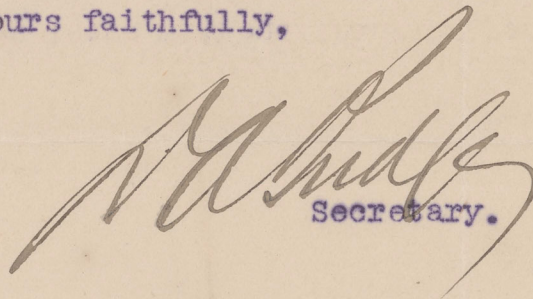

293 University Street, City.

Dear Sir William:-

I cannot leave without thanking you for the letter you so kindly sent to the meeting and which was read last night. The attendance of such a large number of our practical business men and the presentation of such practical and vital truths concerning the christian life and service as was given by Dr. Cuyler and Mr. Mott cannot fail to bear immediate and lasting fruit.

Your sympathy and practical co-operation for so many years has been a great gift to the work here. I trust the future will bring greater fruit than the past has ever shown. Whatever results have been achieved we desire to place the honor and the glory all at the feet of our Lord and Master, in whose name it is our happy privilege to labor.

Yours faithfully,

Secretary.
