

Haymth 5.

carpenter's bill for the few things which he has done at your house I have not yet received. It will only be a dollar or two.
He has put up a post for clothes lines, a little fence to prevent any one from rolling over the ferns at the back of the house, and a new board in the gallery. The Skelltons will no doubt prove good tenants, and seem thankful for anything that is done for them.
At our own house there have been so many matters to attend to that I have only now begun to get a little leisure for reading and writing. Eva has been rendering much assistance in the way of artistic adornment and we are begining to feel settled & comfortable.

I wish you & Mrs Dawson could pay us a visit some time during the summer We cannot offer you unlimited space, but there are plenty of cracks to make the house airy.

You will be glad to hear that Clara looks quite like herself again.
Her neck is entirely healed and she has a marvellous appetite. I am thankful that we brought her down here, for her recovery has probably been much more rapid than it would have been in town. The weather is fine and there are lovely flowers out, including Primula farinosa, Pinguicula vulgaris, and Calypso borealis.
The last I had never seen in flower before. It is a superb orchid.

But I have already written too much for a busy man to read & must close with kindest remembrances to Mrs. Dawson & William

Sincerely yours
B. J. Harrington.
