Dear Father,

I regret to say that I find I cannot carry out my intention of visiting Aunt's town.

Some rather particular

business has turned up which I must attend to.

I can only say I hope to do better next week.

I hope Florence is getting on well. I have heard nothing about her since the announcement of the death. If you would like any more Copies of my paper on the Revolution I can send them to you or to any one you may think will be interested in them. I have already wanted a number of my usual Correspondents & others who seemed likely to be in that line,

Very & learn from a letter received today from Edith! that Bernard has been laid up with neuralgia,

Yours
Gey
