

Monday morning

Dear Mr. Williams

Rankine received a note from you this morning in which you say that you you have addressed a letter containing a cheque for forty dollars to the Union Hotel & now he has gone there to get it & I have reopened my letter of yesterday ready to acknowledge it if it comes all right.

I fear I was mistaken in the hope that any recommendation could open the way for R. to get any appointment in the New York College or any other as R has since informed me that without his degree he cannot hope to get one that he says is the prominent feature in his bitter disappointment. He he acknowledges that some things he has already seen here are truly superior to the methods in use in Sweden but he has evidently no heart for such class battles. Still shd you think that periodic letters to Michael over here wd wld effect any advantage for him by all means make the effort. I spoke to Dr. Cameron after the sermon last night. He was frank & kind. I told him of R's purpose of getting information & begged to let him know fully his circumstances but his presence forbade it letter duly received

R writes for me to go out to day in a box
