Dearest William

I was so anxious but I should lose the first opportunity of writing to you, that I mailed a letter last Thursday, if the Tuesday boat is the July conveyance of mails to Gaspe the mile. I ~~hope~~^{supposed} arrive at the same time. I have very little to write in the way of news. We spent a delightful day on Friday at delightfully connected, quiet, warm gospel message from Rahab's history, that I thoroughly enjoyed. Rankine was very attentive. I told me in returning he saw the truth very plainly.

He says he, I trust it may be an abiding faith that will bring forth fruit!

The afternoon preaching has done away with the need of our Sunday class. I am. Thursday Scripture reading has been transferred to Miss Harvey's house on account of an invalid lady residing there.

Le train. I only hope I shall have the pleasure of going there again with you — without the anxiety one cannot avoid feeling when accompanied to a place of some danger with children.

Muggie Speer paid us his short visit. I returned with Mrs Sullivan on Saturday. Mr S. remains until Sunday on purpose to preach here. I went with the children to the service the

This morning I was more grieved than ever, at the unscriptural mixture that is served out, to bewilder poor souls. About 1/4 of an hour was spent upon a Chas., unobjectionable, cold comment upon Prov: 11.
13 & 14 v.s. In the afternoon there was an out door service between Henderson's & our house, conducted by Lord Cecil. earnest, passionate but shallow & rambling. In the evening we went to Mr. McSimay where Mr. Dunlop gave us a her. I should like to offer the use of our room for a Scripture reading meeting held on Wednesday evenings at Mr Mc Simons. They have so many young children & Mrs Mc Simons is at present so delicate that she finds it almost too much for her, but as the Cecil party attend that, I give it a Parly Character I feard you might be not like my having it. Could I only know your wish I should act accordingly. — "Some say"

"they are good men, others,"
"nay, but they deceive the people".

I trust you & George have spent a happy & profitable Lord's day. The Lord bless & keep both of you. You seem to be very far away from me because you are on unknown ground I try to commit you to His Care & possess my soul in peace Ever your loving Maynard.
