

maacrisked by enemata for many weeks, a few spoonfuls of Champagne & chicken jill being all she can take to maintain & that only at times the sister who attends to her along with the nurse is on the verge of collapse, & altogether the case seems a very serious one.

I went to see Mrs. Wagon yesterday, she looks very very frail & Dr. Craig went with to go to Lakewood shortly but forbids her attempting to go further, which implies I think great weakness, & doubtful success of any change. Sir A. J.
Hall also is getting ready for Lakewood, but seems feeling increasingly deaf, & his voice no better, the buzz of general conversation always him with its sound, while he cannot catch its import.

I had a word with Dr.
Blackader at Mrs. Peck's big tea on Saturday - & he was inquiring about your course & is very strongly of opinion that paper sh<sup>d</sup> not venture back till the session is over, the possible risk of death from weather, & moving cases being too great - <sup>now</sup> ~~then~~ after a little hesitation had said to me - That while he quite realized the law that he had no to the health, that if he arrived at year of good - too probably would the many & many of a public a jurisdiction - There are but the day would - but his opinion given in that way to me as a second hand & distributed party. Same was enough - that if given to you directly, as to a make a matter of law & speaks & says The law are going to Bermuda in a week or so - & says they would has gone to take charge of but children - are going over soon decided as to which to put and - they see the B - children at dinnering - No other not - relative says H - as they were but at of Lawrence - Lawrence is so fast & only - only - nothing will go on her in the every of families clothes - the lady is, especially & she is preparing her great court think why you approve & send an address to has every thing - but Penhallan so well equipped & marking away at his investigations while Miss Derrick instructs his honour students. & his other assistant - goes every at lower duties - whenever some mind saw & others reap, & I suppose it is as honourable & useful though less inspiring.

I fear that Carpie's new domestic is not going to work well on account of the child I am going over today to see how matters proceed -

I do wish we could get some one suitable for her - for she has been most uncomfortable this winter, & she feels her helplessness. & Carpie's her gain increased - her milk will increase - her marketing always finished in under season if it is anything good & she left to go any day after day upon any extraordinary market.
I am seriously thinking of sending Clare over there to tea & sleep if there has to be an other change. & at least Carpie we have some one to complain to, which sometimes is a relief.
Did I tell you that the inragtic Emily Boney has organized a kind of reading club - each Saturday the members vary a little some going only each fortnight - I have with some difficulty persuaded B. to go upon this latter arrangement he needs some relief & works altogether too hard. I have managed to have a few more people here this winter than usual - but it - makes a great difference not going out to Gae on Fridays - Florence is busy & far off - This coming week will be full of excitement & fusses - but I hope to get F & W. to come up some evening the following week, & will try to get a few others with her The trouble is I always want to see some one for some cause especial - I am longing to get hold of Mr. Kresparel & find out who is responsible for some of the mistakes in the High - table drawers etc - If all goes on as usual I shall soon have two near boys who will have to suffer in body & mind for a long years because their superiors will not consider the education of the body as well as brain - & the remember that that self preservation is the first law
