My dear mother,

I have been here now for about a week, but haven't had much to do, have scarcely been any distance from the Hotel. I do not know yet how long I may be kept here, but hope it may not be many weeks. I received the other day your letter noting that Father had finally decided to sell the Wellbourn place properly, & so far as I can see the decision has been wise.

I am not quite so sure about the plan to retain the work of the Principal, for I can scarcely think that Foster will be able to compare himself to this if he refuses to withdraw in any official capacity in connection with the College.

The point is just being & I must close.

Yours
Sincerely
S.
