My dear Mother,

I found I could not very well get down to Montreal on Saturday, & as I propose leaving for the west on Wednesday night & have still a lot of things to look after, I fear I shall not be able to visit you again before I go. Though I have had a note from father within the past few days, I have Heard no details of your plans as Anna's. It seems most unfortunate that her Cook should have failed her for Mutes & thus added additional difficulties, & I can only hope that by this time this want will have been supplied. I trust that all of you in Montreal will take care to govern your activities in the light of the very hot weather & will not overdo your strength. Anna I suppose still intends to go to the Adirondacks with Eric, but I have not heard when she leaves; she will no doubt be all the more anxious to get off now that the hot season seems fairly to have set in. I have not seen W. or Florence during the past week, but I have no reason to suppose that they are otherwise than well. I do not know

When we intend getting off, or when Florence proposes leaving for Mexico

Some

things.
