My dear Mother,

I fear I have neglected my duty in writing very much of late, but have had nothing in particular to communicate.
I trust that matters are going on as well as possible in Montreal, but have heard little for some time. Florence telephoned the other day to ask if I had seen Conrad as she had expected to see him on the way back to Montreal on Monday or Tuesday but had not. I suppose he has returned without calling or way has lengthened his stay at Annapolis. Don't forget to let me know if there should be anything I can do to help you or Anna.

Today is a holiday, being Epiphany & I am here enjoying a comfortable

Just time & arranging materials for the Survey report of last year, now nearly ready to go to the printer.

Yours
George.
