November 21st 1899.

Dear Lady Dawson,

Knowing me so slightly I am sure you will be surprised at my writing you at this time.

It would seem like an intrusion were it not for something special I am sending you. I may say that my heart weeps with and for you. — We know how utterly helpless human comfort is at such a time only He can comfort and that He we know you are so near to.

What prompted me to write you at this time was noticing the three wonderful chapters in my "Daily" bearing the dates of these three memorable days, hence I venture to send the little messenger of comfort - praying God may soothe in this time of need -

Yrs in deepest sympathy

W. B. Jones.
