Quebec
Sunday Evg

Dear Maggie

We had a pleasant voyage up except a heavy sea and head wind off Cap Breton. At Cacouna I saw Marquis whose cottage was still unlet. He looked rather discontented, so recommend it to any one you
see. On arrival here I went to St Louis Hotel, and went to church at St Cook's in the morning and see Marsh, in the evening - told<sup>2</sup> as the latter in Belgium, & the word of the Lord is quick (living) and powerful & he, called an Indian in the forenoon and talked over Eva's Case, He thinks it quite ordinary - plenty such here at present; thinks the treatment good - appreciates Chloroquine also Chlorate of Potash Admiral, sugar, Carrageen, Corn starch, Arrow Root and a new farina of which he will give the

the name, I shall have all these, except the Corn starch which

Quebec Monday Evg

Dear Maggie,

I mailed a note
this forenoon so as to make sure of the mail, and shall take this to the steamer to-morrow morning to give as late news as I can.

~~Yesterday~~ This afternoon I spent at the new job at St. Lewis, studying the Quebec group fossils and arranging with permission to collect fossils. Capt Wolfe and Dr. Schuchert went with me, and I spent a very pleasant time.
Tell the boys that when

Return I shall tell them, if they remember back, all about the forts and the Camps and tents of the Soldiers.

In the evening I went to dine with Mrs Gulley & the Nokes (Col Gulley being out at some public dinner). I spent a pleasant evening, and to-morrow will make up my little things
and be ready to leave.

Mrs Gulley desired me to say to you that she had left Montreal so hurriedly that she could

Not say good bye to friends. She asked me to stay at their house on my return which however I declined. You see however that your friends are of some use to me.

It grieves me not a little to have to turn my back to you all, and go so far away; but let us hope that all may be well.
 My constant prayer shall be for your welfare and do you remember to pray for me.

The good and dutiful

Will send you packages which I trust you will get safely. All information is in the other letter sent by mail.

Yours
William
